Sheridan's New Mayor Takes Oath of Office

City of Sheridan Public Works Lead Kenny Peterson and Doug Tesky pressure wash the clock kiosk at Hebert Plaza last Tuesday in preparation for painting. Rotary plans to give the kiosk a fresh new art deco-style coat of paint to go with the art deco style of the bridge and lamp posts. Rotary, as a member of the City's Parks and Recreation Committee, will focus on improvements to the three mini-parks on Sheridan's riverfront: Hebert Plaza, Morgan Street Park, and Chester Moore Park.

WHAT'S UP IN WILLAMINA

by mary jane

I'm guessing that you know "April showers, bring May flowers?" But do you know what May flowers bring? Right ...pilgrims! That's a really old one, but it's still a fun one.

Right now, I'm thinking that we'd better get ready for the pilgrims. They'll be here before we know it. Wasn't Christmas just awhile ago and then Easter came and hopped right on by, so it seems to follow that the pilgrims will be showing up soon.

But in the meanwhile, let's enjoy the beautiful flowers of spring. Enjoying the season of spring is "What's Up in Willamina."

Sheridan Planning Commission Approves New Phillip Landing Subdivision;

On Feb. 17, 2022, the City of Sheridan's Planning Commission approved a request to subdivide approximately 22 acres into 112 lots located to the west of Viola Street. The property, currently planted in grass, is entirely situated within the city limits of Sheridan. Vane Dickey, Vanessa Dickey, and Glynis McQuaid sold the property to The Mayberry Group of Portland, Inc. Subject to change, the new subdivision's name will be "Phillip Landing." Tucker Mayberry of The Mayberry Group is the contract purchaser of the property.

Atwell, LLC, represents the Mayberry Group as part of the development team. Atwell, LLC employs civil engineers, surveyors, and provides planning services.

LGI, a national home builder from The Woodlands, Texas, will construct the homes. According to the LGI's company website, they launched their business in 2003 with the construction of Summerset Estates, located in Conroe, Texas, about 30 miles north of Houston. In approximately two years, the company built, sold, and closed 337 homes.

In 2012, the website states, they took their first step toward becoming a national homebuilder by opening their first community in Phoenix, Ariz.

"Our focus has been on building homes priced at a point within reach for first-time buyers. As a result, we were recognized for our ability to help first-time buyers in 2016, when we were named Builder of the Year by Professional Builder Magazine," the company states.

"With our quick expansion, we also found our way into the top ranks of homebuilders. On Builder Magazine's 2019 Builder 100 list, which ranks homebuilders by the number of closings in a year, we were ranked as the 10th largest homebuilder in the country. This was our first time breaking into the top ten, and we remain there today," they state.

In addition to the 112 new homes to be constructed, a small park will be included in the subdivision on a piece of the property not included in the 112

Looking north toward the subdivision from the end of Western Street.

The map shown above roughly illustrates the location and layout of Phillip Landing. Blair Street will be extended across the property to Western Street. From Blair Street north is zoned R-2 with a larger minimum lot size set at 7,000 sq. ft. From Blair south is zoned R-1 with a smaller lot size minimum of 5,000 sq. ft.

building lots. Most likely, this park will eventually be deeded to the City of Sheridan.

The new subdivision will include new city streets, and the owners/developers will be required to meet City specs for sewer, water, and storm drains.

City Planner Jim Jacks explained that once the developers build the streets and put in the utilities, they will be considered public rights of way. So the city doesn't actually own the streets, etc., they are dedicated to the public.

The City will maintain the improvements, including travel lanes, curb, gutter, and sidewalks. The City will also maintain public water lines, sewer lines, and storm drain lines forever.

Home-buyers in the new subdivision will become City of Sheridan water customers and pay property taxes. (Sheridan receives a percentage of property taxes paid by residents.) These two sources of income will help offset the ongoing costs of maintenance and repair, as it does in all other areas within the City of Sheridan.

The project includes extending Blair Street across the new subdivision ending on Western Street. Lots in the subdivision located north of Blair Street will be zoned R-1 with minimum lot sizes of 7,000 sq. ft. The lots south of Blair Street are zoned R-2 with a lot size minimum of 5,000 sq. ft. So, lot sizes may be larger than these minimums but may not be smaller.

Jim Jacks explained that the type of housing built is not regulated by the City. Instead, he said this is a private-sector decision.

The homes could be "affordable," "workforce," or five-story mansions.

Jim said, "It's a private sector thing. They have a product. To produce that product, they need individual lots. So the City can regulate the lots, but we don't regulate the product that goes on the lot."

"Workforce housing is a term that's been around for 20 years or so," said Jim. "It is used to differentiate itself from Section 8 type housing. Typically, workforce housing is for people with jobs. It's kind of the middle of the market. Developers don't make a lot of money on cheap housing. They'd like to build million-dollar mansions on each of these lots, but they know that the market isn't there for that. So, typically, they end up in the middle."

Developers typically study the area to determine how they can best match their products with the demands in their market area.

"You have to have 100% confidence in the free market enterprise system," said Jim. "That's what America was built on. And still is being built on."

When the site work preparation and construction of the new homes will get started is uncertain. However, the city planner explained, the time frame is 1.5 years to record the plat from the date of the decision, which was Feb. 17. But, he added, "If they're running behind, they could request an extension."

Rethink, Refuse, Reduce, Reuse, then Recycle!

The Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT) crews were hard at work last Friday afternoon cleaning up piles of garbage accumulated under a large tree located on the triangle of land located between the one way exit and entrance to Sheridan on Highway 18B. The crew limbed the lower branches of the tree in an effort to discourage people from setting up living quarters there again. Unfortunately, cleaning up the resulting piles of garbage is costly to taxpayers. The garbage is also unhealthy for the environment, and an eyesore for passersby.

VOTE YES ON MEASURE 36-211 HELP US HELP YOU!

A "YES" VOTE would allow us to staff a second ambulance 24-hours per day which means we would be better equipped and ready to be here when you need us.

A "YES" VOTE would allow us to replace expired/expiring personal protective equipment (PPE) to keep emergency responders safer and prepared to do their work.

A "YES" VOTE would increase operational revenues to allow increased services.

A "NO" VOTE ends the current levy of 35¢ per $1,000 of assessed property value, leaving the district with only $1.11 per $1,000 for operational funds. A reduction of 31.5%.

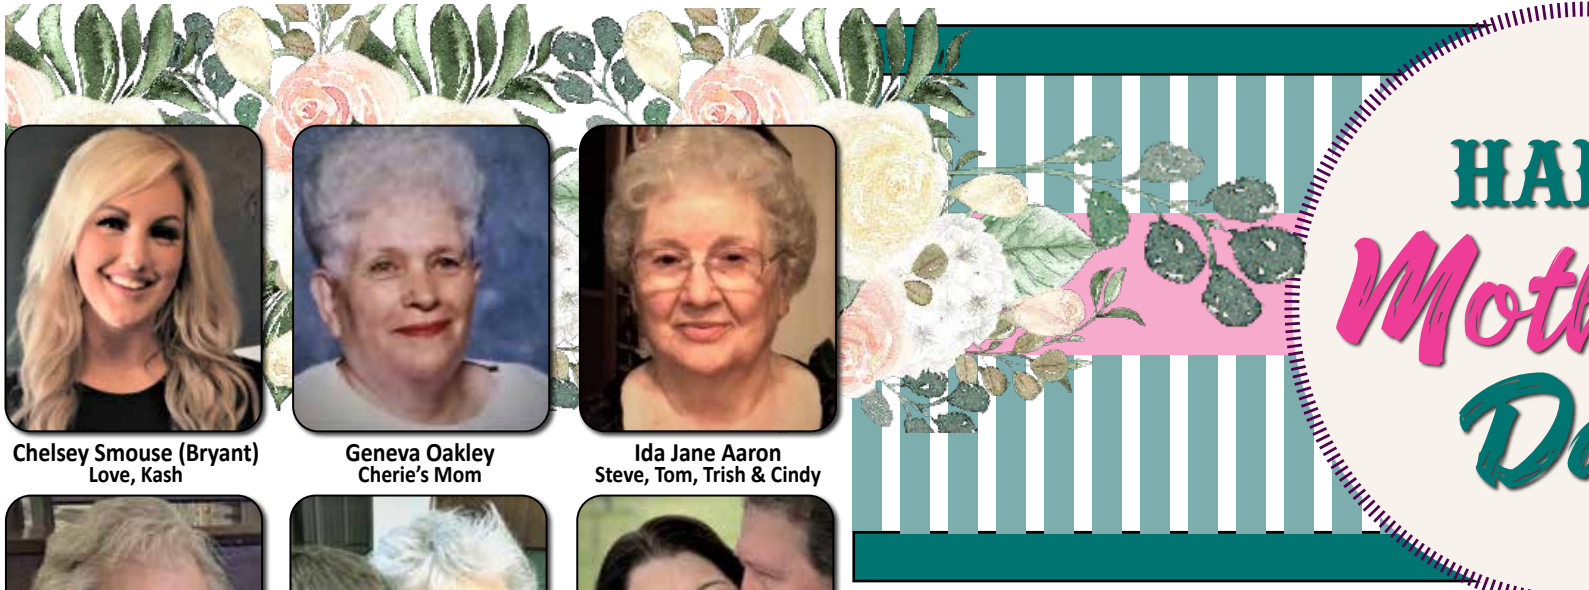

A "NO" VOTE leaves only one ambulance in service. Wait times for trained responders and a second ambulance will increase.

A "NO" VOTE results in loss of funds to replace expired personal protective equipment, keeping responders from engaging in fires and other hazards.

Delphian School Celebrates Early Learning Center Groundbreaking

Delphian School broke ground on its early learning center which will open in 2023, the school announced. The center will be named Serafina Early Learning Center in honor of author and beloved Delphian alumna Melissa McPhail, who passed away in February of this year. Serafina is the childhood home of one of McPhail's heroes in her fantasy series, A Pattern of Shadow and Light.

Members of Melissa McPhail's family, whose generous donations made the building possible, attended the groundbreaking on Tuesday accompanied by Delphian faculty and many of the school's youngest students.

According to the school's announcement, the 1,400 sq. ft. center will serve as a warm and supportive environment for children to explore, create, grow, learn and thrive. It will have the capacity to accommodate up to 25 children, focusing on ages two through four. This will provide a unique opportunity for young students to start developing their abilities, creativity and knowledge.

For more information about Serafina Early Learning Center or the Delphian School, email the head of admissions, Bridgette Rappoport, brappoport@delphian.org, or call 503-843-5831.

A Message from the Sheridan Superintendent

Dear Sheridan Families,

It is hard to believe that we are in the month of May! The 2021-22 school year is in the last stretch while planning for summer programs is in full swing.

Similar to last summer, we will offer an enrichment program at Faulconer-Chapman and an academic program at Sheridan High School. Information will be out soon on both programs. For the enrichment program we are tentatively looking at July 11 - 28, a three week, Monday - Thursday, AM and PM sessions. This is a great opportunity for students to engage in some hands-on learning.

High school students will receive information about summer credit options, including elective credits for work experience. Many of our students continue to make up credits from the 2020-21 school year.

Both programs are funded through a state summer program grant and matching district funds.

There is no cost to attend. Once we have our plans finalized, we will email the information to Sheridan School District families and post it on our website.

I am looking forward to having students engaged in fun summer activities and the opportunity for high school students to earn credits! Please watch for more information and how to sign-up for summer learning!

Memories:

Souvenirs our hearts collect throughout the years.

Contributed by a
Bulletin Board Guest Writer

My great aunt lives in West Salem. When she hears I'm in town going to beauty college and that I have my little sister with me (she's 14), she sends word for us to come live in her little house with two bedrooms, kitchen, and living room.

The offer is very gracious of her as she is 80 plus years old. Every room is old, also, but white washed and clean, kitchen is shiny, wood stove, of course.

I'm working at the cannery (bean season) night shift. She never complains about the cannery smell.

We, being young, don't spend much time with her. We don't want to sit and look out the window from her rocking chairs. The room has one light bulb hanging from the ceiling, a wood stove, and a radio.

My little sister has a beau who arrives after dinner and they go for walks until time to come in. I go visit where there's TV and books. We left her alone when we should have spent time and learned about our ancestors.

If I could only tell young people to spend just an hour or two out of their busy lives once in a while, they would know those few hours they gave to their cherished ones would save them 10 times those hours in quiet when they reach their own later years.

I can attest to all the times I have heard people say, "You know I was going to go, now it's too late, and I'm broken hearted, because they are gone. I have a friend right now who can't get over the fact that his grandmother gave him some money to buy a new VW while in France, and gave him a down payment on his first home. He was working and getting an education. When it was so he could pay her back, he didn't. Whatever she gave him, she didn't expect to be paid back of course.

But with age, he has never forgiven himself, so there's more unnecessary guilt that didn't need to be.

When you age you want to live the good life you've prepared for. You can't even dream what might show up in your memories. So don't give it any seeds.

Sheridan High School Students Host Car Show; Raise Funds for Grad Night

Sheridan High School seniors Wyatt Napier and Cade Casby hosted a car show last Saturday in the Sheridan High School parking lot. The event, the student's senior project, was free to attend, but donations were accepted to help fund this year's senior grad night celebrations.

Pastor Bill Herring blessed the quilts shown above on May 1 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Sheridan. The women, members of TLC Quilters, meet on the third and fourth Thursdays of every month to tie the quilt squares. Then, the quilters send the finished quilts to Beaverton's Trinity Lutheran Church, where they make their way to a warehouse used by World Relief's mission. The quilts can be used as warm bedding, simple tents or floor coverings. Each quilt is meant to reflect God's loving presence in a world rife with suffering. Lunch Bunch Gifted New Delivery Wagon from Mayor Rich Cox

These funny, warm-hearted, generous volunteers cook and deliver free brown paper bag lunches to several locations around Sheridan and the folks waiting in line at the Grand Sheramina Food Bank. The Lunch Bunch is headquartered at Sheridan United Methodist Church, 234 N. Bridge Street.

The lunches usually include a hot dish like soup or chili, fruit, and homemade cookies. They have been delivering these lunches on the fourth Tuesday of the month for more than a year. They serve everyone, not strictly people in need.

Rich Cox, a Sheridan City Council member who has been helping out at the food bank since he learned a mentally challenged individual had caused a physical disturbance there, injuring one volunteer and setting the other volunteer's nerves on edge.

While at the food bank, Rich saw Gay rolling the bags of lunches down the street in a rickety grocery tote on wheels that she'd picked up at St. Vincent's DePaul's. He asked if there was something he could do for her. A guy with a Radio Flyer wagon happened to be walking by about that time, and Gay admitted she was coveting the guy's wagon.

The next day Rich ordered the wagon tote pictured right and delivered it to Gay to use the following Tuesday.

Some people stop by Sheridan United Methodist Church and pick up lunches (they prefer people use the back door by the kitchen), but the Lunch Bunch makes regular rounds. They usually deliver around 100 lunches starting around noon to 12:30 p.m. and continuing until they run out. Then, once in a while, the crew will sit down and enjoy lunch together if they have any left. But, when they see the long line at the food bank, Gay said, "I figure they're probably hungrier than I am."

The group shops for specials at various grocery stores to make the lunches, and, Gay said, sometimes people donate. For example, this week, they received a turkey and made turkey noodle soup.

They set up a table and umbrella outside in the summertime and offer bottles of cold water on ice with the lunches. March marked one year they've been feeding homemade hot lunches for free around Sheridan, including a stop at the library and The Bulletin Board (which we truly appreciate on our busy print day on Tuesdays).

Stefani's talented daughter Katy designed their "Lunch Bunch" t-shirts and other signs and banners. Gay, wearing a scarf that matched her t-shirt perfectly, kiddingly said, "I got the scarf at the Dollar store... before it was the $1.25 Store."

I SUPPORT SHERIDAN FIRE DEPARTMENT AND I WANT TO TELL YOU WHY:

First: We finally have a fire chief, Les Thomas, who cares about his employees, volunteers, and the people they serve - you and me. I trust them and I want them to have the equipment they need and must have to comply with Oregon standards and their safety.

Second: I have a grandson who is a paramedic/fire-fighter and another going to school to become one. Their safety is always my concern.

God bless these men and women who rush to the emergency every time the call comes in. Please support our SFD and this levy.

Would Your Child Benefit from the Sheridan Japanese School Experience?

April Carothers

For a short while, Sheridan Japanese School thought it might have to close its doors, but overwhelming community support helped the school through the uncertainty. One may never know there was any question of whether or not SJS would remain open. Students appear to be thriving and involved in many different activities, such as creative writing, gardening, robotics, fitness classes, astronomy, art, theater, cultural anthropology, and more. SJS will offer new electives next year. The school also boasts several student-led clubs, such as Dungeons and Dragons and Origami.

SJS is a charter school, but it is also a public school, so there is no tuition. Mistakenly, prospective parents often think attendance will be costly because they may find it hard to believe that such a rich curriculum doesn't come with a price tag. Like any public school, SJS must observe and meet state guidelines and benchmarks, but they can do more with their time because of small class sizes.

When there is a lower student-to-teacher ratio, teachers can spend more time with each student. Every student is known to each teacher because there is plenty of opportunity for interaction. Another advantage to a small school is that the staff can meet every day at lunch and after school. They call it circle time, an opportunity to check in with each other, to discuss any obstacles, worries, difficulties, or victories. As a result, they can minimize the isolation that teachers often feel when they spend their days with kids and their free time designing lesson plans.

What they are building at SJS is community and connection, said a staff member. The popular saying "It takes a village" appears very apparent watching this team work together to create support for each other and their students.

Open spots are available for additional students. Students are not required to be Sheridan residents. Many students come from out of town. Parents say they chose SJS because they wanted an alternative to the mainstream approach. Portland has a couple of schools that offer international culture, but SJS is unique in this area. Again, SJS is tuition-free, just like any other public school. What are the advantages of studying the Japanese language and culture? Bilingual workers are in high demand in the workplace, and employers are looking for speakers of many different languages. Learning other languages has also been shown to increase grade point averages and student success. Students thrive when exposed to other cultures and ways of life. As a global community there is a likelihood of growing even more diverse in the future. What are SJS students up to lately? At a recent science fair, students displayed projects that were sometimes investigative, sometimes exploratory, and occasionally experimental. For example, one student studied what kinds of music dogs prefer, one studied rabbits, and one demonstrated how pulleys work. Another explored crystals with a particular focus on amethysts and how they form; another studied the bio-luminescence of marine life. One student taught parents about 3D using reds and blues.

The leadership group leads activities such as spirit week and dances like a student council. Students have also participated in living history presentations. This year, the theme was mythology, with classes choosing between Japanese, Greek, or Norse mythology and then creating costumes to represent specific figures from those stories. In addition, they wrote essays about their characters and then presented them to parent groups. Raffle Palooza is coming up soon. The theatre class and the Taiko team will perform as enrichment for parents. This event, scheduled for May 14, will be held at the Willamina Community Center. The program will offer the opportunity for the community to learn more about SJS and what's happening at the school. Another advantage to this small charter school is that it hasn't suffered the staff shortages endured by many other schools. In addition, all but one SJS teacher currently holds a Master's Degree, and all are focused on student success. SJS can maintain this laser focus on student needs and find ways for them to build many different skills while they explore their interests. Because of the small class sizes, a spokesperson said, the school can group students effectively to support them as individual learners. For advanced students, there are opportunities to study above their grade level. After-school tutoring is available to help students who may need extra help to reach their potential more fully. Age groups can be inter-mixed when appropriate. Pairing younger and older students offers the added benefit of peer support for students needing help and leadership roles for the students providing the help. The entire student body has become close-knit because they get to know each other and work together. They follow the Japanese philosophy, too, of taking ownership of their classrooms and school by participating in daily cleaning. In addition, devoted parents volunteer time each weekend for deeper cleaning and other projects. Overall, SJS is genuinely thriving and is worth a second look for anyone seeking a choice of education for their kids. Again, there are still openings available for students in grades 4-12. The school invites all parents who feel their child would benefit from the SJS experience to contact the school for an application and more information.

CITY MANAGER'S REPORT

FROM THE DESK OF
WILLAMINA CITY MANAGER KENNA WEST

West Valley Fire Board

City management and staff are moving forward on taking over the administration of the West Valley Fire District. It will take time to fully develop and create an organizational process that can be utilized by WVFD once the City's contract has ended; however, the WVFD Board has done an extraordinary job in working together to help create an opportunity for a strong future!

At their April meeting the Fire Board approved a records request fee schedule that mirrors the City's fee schedule. The Board also authorized the President to sign the Oregon State Fire Marshal Permit Application for the 4th of July Fireworks! We all look forward to the gorgeous fireworks display on the 4th of July!! The Board accepted an update from the City Manager on the administrative tasks that have been completed and, importantly, received an update from the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde regarding the outstanding response they have provided from our fire hall.

During the informational reports, there was some discussion regarding the wonderful teams that are stationed at the fire hall and how fortunate we have all been to have them in place. There have been a number of calls that without their immediate response from our fire hall, lives could have been lost!! Those teams are on-site (unless on a call, of course), so even if you don't see a car in the parking lot, know they are there! Often the team members park behind the fire hall and sometimes they complete shift changes at the Grand Ronde Fire Hall, so you may not see their cars in our lot at all...but know they are there and they are making a difference in our community!

Willamina City Council

The Willamina City Council focused on community-based actions at their April Council meeting. Their first order of business was to Proclaim April 2022 Child Abuse Prevention Month. The Council was joined via Zoom by a representative from Juliette's House who graciously "accepted" the proclamation.

Our Mayor then paid tribute to our small businesses by proclaiming the week of May 1-7, 2022 as National Small Business Week. In Willamina, most of our businesses are small businesses. They provide a unique character and personality to our downtown and create a vibrant economy!

The Council heard from Laura Wilkeson, from Hampton Forest Products regarding the State of Oregon Habitat Conservation Plan and the effect it will have on the logging industry. The Willamina City Council voted to submit a letter from the Council providing their position on the importance of the logging industry to our community.

Finally, the Council adopted the City's fiscal year 2022-2023 budget calendar.

Have dinner ready. Plan ahead, even the night before, to have a delicious meal ready on time for his return. This is a way of letting him know that you have been thinking about him and are concerned about his needs. Most men are hungry when they come home, and the prospect of a good meal (especially his favorite dish) is part of the warm welcome needed.

Prepare yourself. Take 15 minutes to rest so you'll be refreshed when he arrives. Touch up your make-up, put a ribbon in your hair and be fresh looking. He just has been with a lot of work-wear people.

Be a little gay and a little more interesting for him. His boring day may need a lift and one of your duties is to provide it.

Clear away the clutter. Make one last trip through the main part of the house just before your husband arrives.

Gather up schoolbooks, toys, paper, etc. and then run a dust cloth over the tables.

Over the cooler months of the year, you should prepare and light a fire for him to unwind by. Your husband will feel he has reached a haven of rest and order, and it will give you a lift too. After all, catering for his comfort will provide you with immense personal satisfaction.

Prepare the children. Take a few minutes to wash the children's hands and faces (if they are small), comb their hair, and if necessary, change their clothes. They are little treasures, and he would like to see them playing the part. Minimize all noise, at the time of his arrival, eliminate all noise of the washer, dryer, or vacuum. Try to encourage the children to be quiet.

Be happy to see him.

Greet him with a warm smile and show sincerity in your desire to please him.

Listen to him, you may have a dozen important things to tell him, but the moment of his arrival is not the time. Let him talk first - remember, his topics of conversation are more important than yours.

Make the evening his. Never complain if he comes home late or goes out to dinner, or other places of entertainment without you. Instead, try to understand his world of strain and pressure and his very real need to be at home and relax.

Your goal: Try to make sure your home is a place of peace, order, and tranquility where your husband can renew himself in body and spirit.

Don't greet him with complaints and problems.

Don't complain if he's late home for dinner or even if he stays out all night. Count this as minor compared to what he might have gone through that day.

Make him comfortable. Have him lean back in a comfortable chair or have him lie down in the bedroom. Have a cool or warm drink ready for him.

Arrange his pillow and offer to take off his shoes. Speak in a low, soothing, and pleasant voice.

Don't ask him questions about his actions or question his judgment or integrity. Remember he is the master of the house and as such will always exercise his will with fairness and truthfulness. You have no right to question him.

A good wife will always know her place.
